ANNAPOLIS IMPROV TROUPE TO DEBUT AT THE FEDERAL HOUSE

Annapolis, MD, June 27, 2012 — On Friday, July 20, 2012, at 8:00 PM, Free Range Improv, a new, local, improvisational comedy troupe will debut their improv show at the Federal House Bar & Grill in the heart of downtown Annapolis.

“Free Range Improv is so excited to partner with Federal House for our debut performance,” said troupe Director, Dann Alagna. “As residents of Annapolis, my wife and I are regular Federal House patrons. We have always loved the restaurant, and thought that it would be the perfect space to kick off our live improv comedy shows. The Federal House was so receptive when we approached them with the idea, and we are so appreciative for their support in this venture.”

“The Federal House is excited to supply opportunities for local entertainers to perform. We believe that this will be a great partnership for our restaurant, Free Range Improv, and our community,” said Federal House General Manager, Jeremy Black.

“Fortunately, we have the space to showcase unique, local talent like Free Range Improv, and we look forward to offering our customers a night of great food, drinks and lots of laughs at the historic Federal House Grill & Bar right in the heart of downtown Annapolis.”
